PLEASANTON—Floats, student-decorated cars and the Amador Valley High School band will highlight the annual Homecoming Parade scheduled for Main Street this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

While the Dons are bringing their Homecoming festivities to a conclusion today Dublin High School students will be doing their version of this traditional slice of teenage Americana.

The Dublin High Homecoming Parade will get underway at approximately 1:45 p.m. from Handyman on Amador Valley Boulevard and proceed to the school.

Floats, homecoming queens and pep rallies will complete the day along with the football contests at both Amador and Dublin fields in the evening.

Vying for Homecoming Queen at Amador Valley High are seniors Doralee Hinckley, Debbie Lloyd and Marie Cornez. Members of fall sports teams voted for the queen candidates.

The queen and winners of the float and best car competitions will be announced at halftime. A dance will follow tonight's East Bay Athletic League contest.

Floats and class princess candidates at Amador are as follows: "Fantasy Land" float theme with princess candidates Angela Carlos, Jennifer Hoggart, and Cheryl Wipfli; Sophomores, "Tomorrow Land" float theme with princess candidates Jeannine DeFalco, Bonnie Larson, and Nancy Murray; the junior class float will carry out a "Frontier Land" theme with class princess candidates Lori Anderson, Michelle Leviera and Leslie White.

The senior Homecoming Queen candidates will ride on the float carrying out the theme of "Adventure Land." Senior float chairmen are Paula Vargas and Kerri Kremers.

Last year's Homecoming Queen, Julie Hemming, now the Maid of Alameda County, will be introduced.

The Dublin festivities will be capped with the Gaels' EBAL contest with Livermore High and halftime activities.

Cops' union—cooperative, no strikes

PLEASANTON—It's a certainty the local police will have a union soon, but it will work in cooperation with local government and the taxpayer, according to one of the union's organizers.

All 27 sworn peace officers in the department have signed cards showing they desire affiliation with the Operating Engineers Union, Local 3, the same union which has represented the Livermore Police Department for the past two years.

Dan Senechal, director of the union's public employees' division, told The Times yesterday that he will be submitting the cards to the city next week in the first step of the personnel procedures which guide the formation of city employee organizations.

Senechal feels that the city will accept the union and after that he will present a list of the police officers' requests to city management.

High on the list, of course, will be salary requests. "We think the salary scale needs upgrading and perhaps some job classifications need realignment. We're interested in a clothing allowance and for educational incentives for officers," said Senechal.

Negotiators for the police will come from the union's professional staff. Senechal wouldn't be surprised if the city also employs an outside professional negotiator to deal with the union bargainers.

"We have negotiated 119 agreements around Northern California and in 95 per cent of the cases they brought in professional negotiators," he said.

For the most part, the union has been satisfied with the caliber of professional negotiators hired by cities and counties, though Senechal felt a few have been too hard-headed to really work out a solution satisfactory to all parties.

"If they bring in someone who understands the ways and means of the area, then everyone comes out in good shape," said Senechal. "We have a no-strike policy. We're talking about good cooperation between management and the union. As long as there is good cooperation, we've been successful."

"We have used politics and other methods besides the strike since 1968 and we have never had a strike," he said. "We feel we've come up with better agreements and a better atmosphere than unions which strike. We don't believe that public employees have the right to strike."

Senechal said that the union wants to "align ourselves as closely as possible with local taxpayers. We believe that as long as the governmental body is responsible enough to sit at the bargaining table with us, it won't be a burden on taxpayers. It will strengthen law enforcement in the area."

The only peace officers who would not be represented by the union would be Director of Public Safety Walt McCloud and Acting Police Chief Ron Nelson, both considered part of the city's management team. The union will represent patrolmen, sergeants and lieutenants and if Pleasanton had any captains, they would be represented, too.

City of Hayward had claimed that captains could not be represented by a union because they allegedly were part of city management, but a court disagreed with that view, said Senechal.

Campaign '76 is heating up

With charges ranging from "Murphy's mud slinger" to "Raymond's hired gun," the campaign for the First Supervisorial District post in Alameda County swings into a roaring finish ... at least in terms of those "Letters to the editor."

Turn to pages 6 and 18 today for a late look at how readers view the election.

For the hard campaign news, including latest financial statements, see page 8.

Bonita Park to be used no longer

PLEASANTON—The park and recreation commission agreed Wednesday night to recommend cancellation of the city's lease for Bonita Park.

The small park on Foothill Road near Verona Road south of Castlewood has been used less in recent years by city residents after the East Bay Regional Park District opened Sunol Regional Park and Shadow Cliffs Park.

Vandalism and high maintenance costs and lack of supervision at the park make it unattractive for the city to continue its use, said Human Resources Director Robert Caporusso. The recommendation will be passed on to the city council.

In other action, the commission discussed goals for the coming year and decided that one of them will be a review of the general plan for Sports and Recreation Park. They also will embark on a new five year plan for park capital improvements. Commissioners passed resolutions of commendation for the American Senior Little League, National Senior Little League, Bobby Sox Softball and the women's softball program for their work toward development of phases one and two at Sports and Recreation Park.

They also commended the Loma Alta Playground Action Committee for their fundraising and volunteer work in installing lot lot improvements at Loma Alta Park. The various commended groups will appear at the next commission meeting, November 18 at the City Council Chambers, to receive their citations.

The commission addressed a couple of housekeeping problems and decided there will be no regular meeting in the month of July so that commissioners can take vacations then. The commission will reorganize itself each June and be ready to deal with business in August.

400 signatures thrown out

Council rejects overcross petition

PLEASANTON—Val Vista resident Cyril Kirkland tried to get the city council to accept a petition Monday night, but the council wasn't taking.

Kirkland didn't have the petition there physically, but he was trying to get the council to count its 400 or so signatures into the results of its recent newspaper poll about the Las Positas overcrossing.

The poll had presented newspaper readers with six options, including no overcrossing, a pedestrian-only crossing, and varieties of vehicle overcrossings.

The winning option was a two lane vehicle overcrossing with bike and pedestrian lanes. In second place was a four lane overcrossing complete with freeway on and off ramps.

Now that was unfair, said Kirkland, because the city clerk had counted in 25 or 35 votes brought in by someone else who devised her own poll on the subject. All of the ballots in that impromptu poll favored the four lane roadway with the interchange ramps.

But if the council is going to count in that impromptu mini-poll, then it ought to count in approximately 400 signatures obtained on a petition a few months ago by Kirkland, Cookie Clark, and other residents who favor construction of a pedestrian overcrossing, said Kirkland. When Kirkland suggested it at the council meeting Monday night, Councilman William Herlihy observed that Kirkland's petition wasn't just aimed at the Las Positas overcrossing. It was taken last summer and aimed at a Cal Trans public hearing about the Stoneridge overcrossing. Just how precise would it be to add the petition to the newspaper poll, Herlihy wondered.

It's true it was aimed at the Cal Trans hearing, but the meat of it was that the city or state should build a pedestrian overcrossing at Las Positas and a vehicle overcrossing at Stoneridge Drive, said Kirkland.

Kirkland realizes there was another petition presented to that Cal Trans hearing last summer, one which favors a vehicle overcrossing at Las Positas. He thinks the council should add that one to the newspaper poll, too, even though it got more a few more signatures than his poll did. At least the council would have more opinion on it that way, he said. And the petitions got the opinions from the neighborhoods immediately affected by the whole issue, he added.

Kirkland intends to pursue the idea further with the council.

The council will have another chance to peruse public opinion on the overcrossing when Foothill High School students take a community poll on various political issues this week.

The council consensus Monday appeared to be that it was nice to have the results of the newspaper poll, but no one knows how accurate it is because it represents only about 2 per cent of the city's adult population.

Conversion focus changes in Dublin

The focus of whether to convert a Murray School District school to seventh - eighth grade use has switched at least temporarily to Fallon, Frederiksen and Murray schools in Dublin.

Also, Murray school board members have been asked to give strong consideration to how any conversion would split-up Early Childhood Education (ECE) programs.

Meanwhile, assistant superintendent Heinz Gering reports that teacher unit and administration negotiators and state - appointed mediator Mike West will meet again Saturday at 9 a.m.

Murray Teachers Association spokesman Bob Kroetch has said teachers will take a strike vote at 7 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 9 if no 1976-77 contract is settled by that time.

Teachers have instituted a crisis calendar, planning a variety of informational activities to inform the public of their position.

At Wednesday's special board meeting to review the Citizens Advisory Committee report (including a recommendation to convert Dublin School to seventh - eighth grade use), teachers paraded along the main walkway into Dublin School with placards noting their grievances.

When Kroetch attempted to make a presentation, board president Ted Woy gavelled him out of order. The agenda for the meeting had no mention of a presentation by teachers.

Trustee Bob Foster led off the discussion of the CAC report by claiming the panel had less than all information necessary. He quoted enrollment and capacity figures for Fallon and other district schools, opining there are some discrepancies in the capacity figures.

Gering said if a school where ECE children attended was converted, and they had to be transferred, the new home school would have to rewrite the ECE program.

Trustees learned that Donlon, Lydiken and Nielsen are next on priority list for having ECE programs.

The District Advisory Committee for ECE has asked for a decision (conversion or status quo) by Jan. 1. Woy, during a later portion of the nearly three-hour review, said "Fallon would be the ideal school to convert because of its proximity to other schools. My only reservation is its small size and adaptability for junior high classes."

Most of those trustees and audience members expressing opinions felt seventh and eighth graders want a school of their own.

Discussion of the report will be continued at Monday's regular board meeting, slated for Fallon School at 8 p.m.

No-man land for voters

Alameda County Bureau

Voting, the second - natured premise to the democratic process, takes on state mandated complications for some voters this election who suddenly find themselves saddled with "absentee ballots" — like it or not.

They're a minority, to be sure, says county registrar of voters Jim Riggs. Only 454 of the county's 544,000 registered voters are caught between that rock and a hard place that forces them into absentee status.

The problem comes from the cornucopia of special district ballots that do not necessarily follow city boundaries, says Riggs.

Residents on Foothill Road near Bernal Avenue, for example, are outside Pleasanton's city limits, and thus cannot vote on the controversial Proposition U, the LAVWA "super sewer" line. But they fall within the sphere of the county's structural fire tax increase measure, Proposition B, that excludes city residents. They need a special ballot, but cannot come up with the 31 registered voters required to form a polling place.

Boundries for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, AC Transit, East Bay Regional Park District, Liver-more Area Recreation and Park District, special hospital and water zones, all overlap, sometimes leaving a handful of voters to form one "precinct."

"It's simple," says Riggs. "The state law says 'Thou shalt vote absentee' when there's 30 or less registered voters to form a precinct."

While their "absentee" status has hit some valley residents as a shock — one complained of never being given an absentee ballot during 18 years in the valley — others bounce regularly between the mails and their precincts.

A flinch is as good as a lie

PLEASANTON — "Where were you on the night of January 16?"

The person hooked up to the polygraph flinches ever-so slightly, appears distressed and the machine records the reaction to the question.

The intricacies of the machine known popularly, but not correctly, as the "lie detector," were explained and demonstrated to Amador Valley High students of Robert Holland Thursday by Alameda County Sheriff's Detective Sergeant Frank Perry.

Perry told students, during a half-hour informational and question and answer session, that "70 per cent of those who take polygraph tests are truthful, 20 per cent are not being honest and 10 per cent of the tests are inconclusive."

Perry said polygraph tests are admissible in court under certain conditions.... "In other words, if it's good for the defendant, the defense would want the test taken," he added.

"Taking the test is not a presumption of innocence or guilt," Perry continued. "Only when results are admitted to court can any assumptions be made."

Perry trained for the polygraph by attending the national center for testing in New York City for six weeks. He had to take a polygraph test himself before he went.

However, though there are recognized and certified schools in this state for polygraph training there is no licensing procedure.

Also discussed was the use of the polygraph in pre-employment tests by investigating agencies and businesses. Sheriffs department employees do not have to take pre-employment test.

Perry noted that famed trial lawyer F. Lee Bailey uses polygraph tests on most of his cases. Patricia Hearst, a Bailey client now incarcerated at the Federal Correctional Center near Pleasanton, took the tests, according to Perry.

The polygraph has been a controversial instrument since its inception, though.

The examining session is conducted in an atmosphere that is inevitably tense, so that the examiner's first effort is to get the subject to relax and to explain to him in some detail the procedure that will be followed. Many practitioners conduct a rather full pre-examination interview during which material is gathered for neutral "control" questions.

The subject is seated in a special chair and the various sensors are attached to him or her. The polygraph is turned on and the recording pens are adjusted to a normal base line. Then the series of carefully worded questions, each answerable by "yes" or "no", is read to the subject; a marker is placed on the record for each question and the answer is jotted down. In most techniques, critical questions are interspersed among neutral ones, the assumption being that the machine will record greater fluctuations from normal when the subject answers critical questions untruthfully.

At the conclusion of Perry's presentation, one student in each was permitted to volunteer and Perry asked the subject basic questions to illustrate use of the equipment.

Holland has a wide range of speakers in his class throughout the year and also sponsors programs open to the public.

The next such program is Wednesday, Nov. 3 when Stanton Friedman, a noted lecturer and nuclear physicist, speaks on flying saucers and UFOs. The presentation is slated for the Amador Valley High auditorium at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the school office.

BART study board hassles with firm

DUBLIN — The valley's Bay Area Rapid Transit District Extension Study Board, nicknamed the "LPX," would like to close its books and dissolve following completion of its 150-page "alternatives analysis" released this week, but is stymied by a $26,464.31 difference of opinion with its consultants.

Where the original contract called for a $282,000 report, increased costs and a two-year overrun pushed the figure to $315,800.

Accountants for Livingston and Blaney and De Leuw, Cather and Co., the San Francisco firm that has been working on the analysis since 1972, have adjusted their figures and claim the firm is due the additional compensation.

Not so, claim the LPX staff from BART. The consultants claim patronage figures supplied by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission and BART were wrong, and that they were forced to re-compute their figures.

But BART and MTC spokesmen say acceptance and verification of the numbers were the responsibility of the private firms and that any problems "were of the consultants' own making."

The 1-580 widening controversy and threatened suit "complicated the issue," both agree.

Meanwhile, the LPX board, with BART directors Bob Allen from the valley and Fremont director John Glenn joined by Livermore and Pleasanton city managers Bill Parness and Bill Edgar and MTC representative Don Dillon, want to disband.

Temple dedication

Dedication ceremonies were held yesterday at the Sunol Water Temple, built in 1910, as the Alameda Creek Water Development was declared a California Historic Civil Engineering Landmark. The 130-year-old Sunol system was only the second such development to be honored by the American Society of Civil Engineers. James McCarty, president of the ASCE's San Francisco section, presented a plaque formalizing the dedication. He is Oakland's Director of Public Works.

quiries, have forced Riggs to patch an automatic answering service into his office's switchboard to handle the barrage of calls.

Voters who never before have been confronted with the mandatory absentee ballot sometimes go to an attorney thinking the registrar's office in error. But, Riggs explains, "We work from the assessor's office records so people vote on what they're taxed for."

The problem is most pronounced in unincorporated areas bounding cities. Voters on the fringes of Hayward quite often find themselves singled out for "absentee" status, but the bulk of the mandatory absentee ballots come from the more rural valley.

There are 1,326 precincts in next Tuesday's election compared to 1,248 in the June 8 primary. Dividing and pairing areas according to the voters' ballot produces 76 types of ballots, Riggs says, plus seven "overseas" absentee ballots that allow votes only on federal offices.

His office picked up another ballot just last week, only a few days after the computer thought it had scored it all.

The City of Oakland annexed one block of territory from an adjoining area. The people on that block — both of them — thus vote on Oakland issues, as well as their old special district measures. They, too, must have a special ballot.

"And I can't very well send out four workers to register the votes of two people, now can I," Riggs asks rhetorically.

Measure U examined

PLEASANTON — A debate on Measure U, the proposed $28 million cross-valley wastewater pipeline, brought into public scrutiny differences on the controversial issue which voters will decide Nov. 2.

Proponents of the measure were Pleasanton Mayor Robert Philcox and Valley Community Services District Director Lila Euler. Both are members of the pipeline's sponsoring joint powers, the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA).

Opposition to passage of the bond revenue measure included Livermore City Councilman Glen Dahlbacka and Richard Ryon of the Zone 7 water management board of directors. Dahlbacka is an alternate to the LAVWMA board.

Measure U would provide $28 million for construction of a disposal pipeline from Livermore to a hook-up point with the sewer, a large wastewater pipeline that would take treated effluent from several communities to an outfall in San Francisco Bay.

The pipeline would have a capacity for 15.62 million gallons per day (mgd) of residential sewage, and 4.1 mgd for future industrial users in Livermore and Pleasanton. Thus, the 30-inch pipe would carry an average flow of 19.72 mgd.

Dahlbacka began the debate with charges that the industrial capacity was too great and would leave open the possibility that future developers would sue to use it for large residential developments.

"The Valley would need a new Lawrence Livermore Laboratory every two years for the next 20 years to use up that capacity," Dahlbacka said, "or a new Kaiser Center for Technology every six months for the next 20 years."

He said there must be a better way to use $1 million to attract new industry to the Valley.

Euler said the project was only a small part of a national effort to clean up the country's environment.

"The Valley must stop dumping its sewage into Alameda Creek by July of 1979," she said.

Other methods of disposal, including reclamation, had been studied but rejected because they were either too costly, unproven usage which would support enough industry to use the entire 4.1 mgd set aside for large business.

"If there's anybody that thinks that the Valley can survive on a tax base of homes alone, he must either be very rich or not a serious thinker," Philcox emphasized the project was part of a 20-year plan.

Opponents of the measure said if there were no questions the industrial capacity would not be used for residential growth, contracts with that guarantee would have been signed before the election. Proponents countered, saying that the LAVWMA board "overwhelmingly" felt those guarantees exist in growth management plans and other contracts already signed.

Proponents closed their arguments with a plea for the measure's passage, saying that "well over" $20 million in government grants would be lost if it failed on this ballot.

Opponents said the project should be built right in the first place for the greatest savings with the least chance of problems.

U's war chest, pg. 8 or failed to meet public health concerns.

She denied the pipeline would fund residential projects proposed by developers. "Geldertown will not be serviced by the project," she said.

Ryon said the project had been proposed with the best intentions but was far from ideal. He named other possible disposal methods and challenged the LAVWMA's boards claim that all new methods had been carefully examined.

Philcox said there are 2,673 acres of undeveloped land zoned for industrial

Junction's Valley School pumpkin festival

LIVERMORE — Junction Avenue School's third annual pumpkin festival is set to go tomorrow, noon to 4 p.m.

Dan Chambers' "Blue Note Jazz Band" will present a concert while visitors enjoy pumpkin carving, sponge toss, baked goods sale, pie eating contest, pumpkin walk and decorated cake raffle. Come hungry — refreshments for sale include hot dogs, coffee, pumpkin pie, soft drinks.

The school is located just off north First Street on Junction Avenue.

Daycare center due

LIVERMORE — Valley School at 487 South J St. will be launching a new daycare program in November for babies six weeks of age and older.

The program will be supervised by Marilyn Kercher, head teacher, mother of two young children who holds a bachelor's degree in child development. She was previously a teacher in an experimental infant care center at Cornell University.

She says, "Our most important goal is to provide safe and loving care to babies in a cheerful, interesting, home-like atmosphere. We want to offer a program which is flexible enough to serve mothers in a variety of situations. We intend to serve parents who work full or part time, go to school, or who have outside interests which require time away from their children.

"We want it to be a place where mothers can socialize, exchange information about kids, and leave their babies in loving hands."

The new program is being equipped by donations from interested parents and community members and groups. Portacribs, rocking chairs, linen, toys, toddler-sized furniture and some appliances are being collected.

Valley School is a nonprofit corporation and all gifts are tax deductible. For further information about the program, enrollment or pickup of donations, call 447-4114 or visit the school at Fifth and J.

Almond kids begin training

A gold medal went to Nicky Ratti of Almond Avenue School in last June's special Olympics; he won the 50-yard dash for 10 and 11-year-olds.

Almond Avenue School's handicapped children are getting ready for the one sports event of the year in which they can compete — the Special Olympics.

Unlike their normal brothers and sisters, who can join soccer teams at the age of three, kids who are mentally retarded or damaged in other ways have few changes to enjoy organized physical exercise. Too often they remain passive and quiet in a corner with poor muscle tone and undeveloped coordination — not to mention low self-esteem.

Realizing the plight of their exceptional children, Almond School parents and teachers for the past two years got together to prepare children for the Alameda County Special Olympics.

Last year's entrants trained for almost six months before the big day. Training consists of warm-up exercises and step by step training in the events in which they'll compete.

The children are timed in track events while field events are measured by distance or height. Children are weighed and measured and this information, plus age, sex, time and distance is sent to the Special Olympic Committee where children are grouped appropriately in each event.

In March, 1976, Almond students competed in the 50-yard dash and the softball throw. Six children represented Almond and came home with a total of 10 medals and ribbons.

After the county Olympics, one child is chosen to represent his or her school at the state Olympics at UCLA. This is a three-day event that climaxes months of training and hard work. The children fly to Los Angeles with a specially trained person assigned to each group of five students. The children stay in UCLA dorms. This event is often the child's first experience away from home and family.

Last June, Nicky Ratti flew to Los Angeles to take part in the state Special Olympics. Nicky came home with a gold medal proving that he's the fastest runner in his age group and educational category in all of California.

Almond teachers, students and parents annually raise money and lend encouragement to the handicapped tots who work so hard for the Olympics. This year, training has already begun for the competition planned for next spring at Merritt College, Oakland.

Complaints stop road widening

LIVERMORE — Objections by property owners along East Avenue in the past few months prompted the planning commission to recommend against city-county plans to widen that street.

The right of way in 1959 was 88 feet, according to Planning Director George Musso. The early 1970's saw it increased to 104 feet. County planners originally wanted the street widened to 120 feet to accommodate a "fifth lane" but Livermore's staff recommended a maximum of 108 feet.

Property owners, including Los Positas Swim Club and Wentle Bros. Winery, complained several times widening would be an undue encroachment on parking spaces and valuable agricultural land.

This week the planning commission acceded to the property owners and sent a plan to the city council which would reduce the street to a 94 foot width.

Sidewalks and bike paths would remain, said Musso. "Everything would be there, but squeezed in a little bit."

The street varies between 50 and 80 feet, depending on development, he noted.

Widening is still planned, but no major project is on the boards other than to place street lights and left turn pockets a few years down the road.

The planning must be done this far in advance, said Musso, so people don't place buildings where street widening will eventually take place.

The presidency and the people

Many Americans and seemingly most of the nation's news media complain "this is the dulllest presidential race in history."

We suggest the nation is getting what it deserves or, more to the point, what we demand.

It has been a decade for "feeling out the constitution." Never before have the people — those who elect or those who are elected — come to grips with such items as "the checks and balances" ... "the public's right to know" and a lot of other "foundations" upon which our system is supposed to be built. Some of us are even challenging those foundations.

Having ejected one president from office, there is now the feeling that every president, every Congressman and judge is subject to a short-term lease. Never steeped in the tradition of "civil service" familiar to older, more structured democracies, we Americans have little patience with those public servants who seem suddenly out of line with today's morality, or the latest environmental poll.

It is from that setting a little known governor from one of our least-understood states emerged as the front-runner in a field of "unknowns." (The current campaign might be "more exciting" if it offered Ronald Reagan versus Fred Harris, but would it really be any more enlightening?)

Before we condemn Gerald Ford for being "just another nice guy who doesn't really belong in the presidency," ask yourself — "Who does really belong in the presidency, these days?" ... and indeed "What well-endowed individual would seek the office?"

We claim to be "One nation under God," with a national code of morals easily offended by errant presidents or loose-living Congressmen. But we are terribly uneasy when a presidential candidate comes along who wants to talk openly about his belief in God ... his faith and his shortcomings.

We are a people feeling our way, these days. It is not the presidency that is in trouble so much as it is the electorate which cannot decide what kind of president we want, for what kind of office.

Given that uncertainty, the candidacy of Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter is predictable, and even timely. To deny either or both of them our vote "because they don't deserve it" would be the ultimate hypocrisy in a nation now dedicated to fairness in all things, even public service.

... the president

Given the thoughts above, we believe Gerald Ford deserves at least one full term in order to fulfill the duty we thrust upon him with such relief, just two years ago.

There is nothing terribly different in the offerings of the two candidates. Indeed, Carter could turn out to be the more conservative. Certainly their "TV charisma" is a poor standard to apply in choosing any man for high office ... and that is a pitfall we are going to have to avoid, in this electronic age.

Against tax override

Editor, The Times:

If override passes — how will that affect budget funds?

The proposed safety tax override is but another crutch in the long list of inadequate solutions to Livermore's financial circumstances, and if this override is passed, it probably will result in deadlier and heavier burdens on the taxpayer. As ATU Vice-president J. Wilverding pointed out, no city council in the past 20 years has considered Safety to be the No. 1 priority; each council has pushed its own pet projects, or those projects whose vested interests seemed able to push city officials. It is safe to forecast, that should the safety tax be passed, then next May when the council and city officials are studying the 77-78 budget, they could look to the tax override and justify lowering the amount of funds to be appropriated for fire and police. The cycle could then start; with less money coming in from the budget, the amount for the override could be raised and pet projects could continue to be covered by the general fund ... The override could grow just as the sewer fee did, with its surcharge, and increases through the years. For that reason, it should be voted down.

How come the big agencies don't pay for more service? There are many ways the city could start to save money to give the safety features they claim will be given by a tax override. ... the Mutual Aid we get from LLL — no other city can match the protection Livermore gets. However, our sewer charges have increased over the years due to inflation, higher standards of treatment, and increased population. LLL continues to expand, yet it pays the same old sewage fees and their rates, to my knowledge, have never been increased. ... What about Sandia's rates? Other forces in the so-called safety picture are the administrative, clerical, and other non-safety personnel salaries which are paid out of fire and police money. Both chiefs report to the city manager, as do the new industrial aide and other staff personnel. Yet the salaries for these administrative safety people are not taken out of the city manager's funds to run the city! ... there are a lot of people getting paid out of the safety funds who do not fight fires or crime ... If all non-safety personnel were removed from the payroll for safety, the city could effect great savings which would be adequate for Safety.

FOCUS/Good news, too

Contract capers

Just when it appeared teacher units and school district administrations might be resolving their contract differences, word comes that Pleasanton teachers have declared an impasse in negotiations and Murray teachers are thinking about a strike.

Fortunately, the neighboring Livermore and San Ramon districts have not stumbled into the collective bargaining thornbush. There is also encouragement in the fact that Amador district teachers will consider ratification of contract terms settled upon early last Saturday. The crucial items worked out include binding arbitration of grievances, agency shop and salary.

These are the bones of contention with Pleasanton teachers also, but Murray certificated staff members are apparently in for their board for allegedly withholding step and column salary increases.

Irked to the point that they've adopted a "crisis calendar," Bob Kroetch of the Murray Teachers Association claims the enthusiasm for the Murray teacher unit's actions "overwhelmed the five person teacher negotiating team. At one point the team received a two-minute standing ovation."

Now, we are told, Murray teachers will initiate the crisis calendar by participating in such activities as picketing, community leafletting, sign painting and setting up of a crisis office. Supposedly more than 100 teachers have "signed up" for these activities.

The Murray Teachers Association intention is to bring about settlement of a 1976-77 contract prior to 7 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 9. Kroetch says that if no settlement is in sight, teachers will take a strike vote.

Call it what you want — pressure tactics, intimidation or dedication to principle — it is a worrisome prospect to parents and taxpayers.

So again, rather than belabor these disappointing turn of events in the Murray and Pleasanton districts, let's add some of the positive things that are happening.

Such as the Americana '77 Band Review this Saturday in Pleasanton.

Sponsored by the Foothill High School Band Boosters, the parade of outstanding Bay Area prep bands will start at 11 a.m. with Main Street - Pleasanton the focal point. That night at 6:30 there'll be a half-time competition that band music aficionados will not want to miss.

Both Amador and Dublin High Schools have homecoming parades this afternoon, Amador's along Main starting at 1 and Dublin's from the Handyman store at 1:45.

Neil Armstrong School PTA in San Ramon will go on with their annual carnival Saturday. It'll take a heck of a lot more than a fire to get the kids and parents down!

Letters to the Times

Concerned teacher

Editor, The Times:

I have been a teacher in this district for 34 years, and it has been delightful every moment. The administration and teachers have been one team working together for the good and well being of children. This last year quite suddenly the picture has changed and it is hard to understand what has happened. We have become two teams instead of one. Our children, our most important resource, are going to suffer with a split like this one.

Binding arbitration is the main issue keeping us divided. As teachers we are asking that the integrity of our contract be guaranteed by binding arbitration. We will abide by the arbitrators' decision, and are asking that the other side do the same. This to us is the democratic way of life. Can we truly teach children what democracy is if we are denied this process as teachers? I know all teachers are hoping this issue can soon be resolved and we can concentrate solely on the job of education.

Tax relief late

Editor, The Times:

Why did County Supervisor John D. Murphy wait until this election year to start clamoring for tax relief for the property owner? If he were really sincere in his concern for the taxpayer, why didn't he start this movement in previous years? The problem has existed for many years.

Murphy's attitude toward the tax payer is predominantly negative as evidenced by his strong and persistent promotion of a piece of property in Pleasanton valued at about $125,000 or less for a sale price of about $450,000 to Alameda County for a court complex. This profit or excess mark-up would come from the pockets of us tax payers.

The fact that this property just happened to be adjacent to a large plot of investment property in which he has a substantial interest makes his recommendations from now on even more suspect regarding property transactions. How can we tell if he is being unduly influenced or not? Whose interests has he more prominently in mind, us tax payers, or his own?

The voters can change this negative type of representation into a positive type this November 2nd by voting Valerie Raymond into office of County Supervisor. Those wishing this change have got to vote, so let's all be sure to get to the polls.

Good teachers

Editor, The Times:

Having been in the education system in various capacities for a combined total of 26 years, my husband and I have watched with interest the gradual erosion of negotiations between the AVTA and the administration.

Our original dealings with the Pleasanton elementary school system were nothing short of traumatic for us. They climaxed when we were about to pull our son out to go to private schools. The pain and agony and confusion he experienced because of the lack of teachers for over 90 kindergartners should never have happened. We felt this should have been handled before school began, and were quite openly hostile to both teachers and administrators. Yet ... our perceptions have been changed radically.

We have been cynical about teachers as a whole having seen too many collect paychecks while playing worthless games in the classroom ... We know where the education of our children lies ... It lies with hard working dedicated teachers. Teachers whose cars are parked in front of the school when I return home around 4:30 or on Saturdays and even Sundays. ... they give the time to see our children get the education that we as parents want them to have. If the quality and dedication of teachers in the rest of the district is the same as it is at Fairlands then the partial boycott is doomed to failure, but these teachers shouldn't have to boycott, they not only deserve consideration of their requests but have already earned it, and they should have the support of all the parents in this community. They have ours.

Twin Valley Guides

Editor, The Times:

The Twin Valley Y-Indian Princess Program recently held a very successful campout and Y-Indian Princess/Guides Orientation at Shadow Cliffs. On behalf of the 107 dads and daughters at the campout, and 188 Guides and Princess participants at the Sunday Orientation, I'd like to publicly say thank you to those people who helped to make it a success.

First is Jim Howland and his staff at Shadow Cliffs. We had the use of some very nice campsites, but were especially impressed with the extra cooperation and assistance given by Jim.

Second is Joanne Dean, Naturalist from Sunol Regional Park, and the three docents ... Don Frazier, Mary Lee DeCarli, and Charlie DeCarli. Joanne did a fine job of training some of our dads to assist the docents in leading the nature/ecology walks.

Special thanks to Ron Saltgaver for his craft presentations, Ted Carpenter for leadership, Stan Cowen for values and communications, the Ohlone and Costanoan Princess tribes for games during the Orientation, the Washoe tribe for registration and game, the Cherokee tribe for Chapel, Dave Walter and the Yurok tribes for boating and fishing, Otis Walton and the Yokut and Chippewa tribes for games and astronomy, and the Hopi tribe for refreshments.

round the town

Not since a big kid threatened to beat me up if I failed to turn over my pillow - case loaded with Halloween goodies, has it been an occasion dear to my heart.

Oh sure, the loot we gathered in trudging door to door was more than worth that labor. I had walked a mile and a half to school most every day of my life, and a mile and a half home again, with seemingly precious little award for that labor, at either end.

So the gathering of sweets and apples, cookies and (glory be!) even the occasional penny, was a harvest of worthy dimensions.

Until the big kid threatened to beat the living daylight out of me. Torn between a familial code for fair play, and a prairie standard for self preservation, I was debating what to do about Big Kid's demand ... when he grabbed my pillow case and took off for points unknown. It was the most miserable Halloween in memory. They have been miserable ever since.

Its origins, we are told, are religious. Something to do with "the eve of All Saints Day." Today's mature, non-sectarian society pays precious little homage to All Saints Day. But we religiously send forth our little ones ... to go begging door to door ... in pursuit of candied razor blades ... exposed to all manner of mayhem in the dark of night ... in the name of "good old Halloween."

For those somewhat above the age of begging for candy, there are late-late shows at the drive-in, usually featuring Clint Eastwood in a latter-day display of mayhem that would put any teen-aged antics to shame. Clint advances the theory that all good things come to the meanest, biggest kid on the block. Millions adhere to the Eastwood teachings.

If I were part of today's Halloween generation — but given the same spindly stature that was to be my childhood cross — I would be pounded to a pulp within two blocks of home. Mother would have to tie me to my pillow case with a chain ... and then slip me a .45 in order to make it a fair fight.

Few years back some kindly Fremont dentist lured Halloween tots into his home. There he loaded them up with candy, that was loaded up with drugs. Some of the kids almost died. The dentist almost died laughing.

Then there was the Halloween party for young adults. Beer, mild punch, that sort of thing. Until some cutie loaded down the punch with a quarter-pound of hallucinogenic drugs. One innocent young lady never has recovered from the shock of that little trick.

"But you're only stressing the bad things that happen at Halloween while overlooking the good things."

Sure, but that's like stressing the chance of getting murdered in a dark alley, while forgetting to mention all those who go through unharmed.

At Halloween — at least the way many parents approach it — the kid's chances of surviving the night unharmed are growing slimmer and slimmer.

Not that they'll all be mugged. Some of them will get off with bumping into a friendly auto at the corner ... where the motorist "couldn't see the kid because he was dressed all in black."

Other tots will suffer nothing more than a tumble down a neighbor's front steps ... victim to the wrap-around, full-length skirt that mother worked so long and hard to fashion for her darling. She might just as well have broken the kid's leg, and then sent her door-to-door bellowing "Trick or Treat!"

Halloween isn't all bad. There are neighborhood parties where the worst that can happen is getting soaked in a barrel-full of apples.

Every community has some sort of "Haunted House" or a gathering of accepted spooky dimensions where youngsters, and their parents might participate with unrestrained glee.

So take your little darling to one of them. Walk them there, and then walk 'em home again.

Make Halloween a fun night you will all remember. But don't tell me you sent your six-year-old off into the dark, alone and bound up in black rags, just because you love her.

The thoughtful folk at McDonald's have put together a few "Safety Tips" that make good reading this time of year. The offerings of "Mr. McBoo" appear at the bottom of this column. Read that list, talk it over with your small fry. Make planning for Halloween a family fun event ... one that will still be fun the next day, when the news media are carrying blood-curdling stories of the annual casualty list, from yet another faithful observance on the eve of All Saints.

On camera

By now it's history.

Murphy and Raymond were poised and profound in their presentations. They buried hatchets in the appropriate places, pirouetted gracefully on pivotal points, and battled bravely for the hearts and minds of millions.

Viewers, dutifully critical, by now have weighed their notes and fashioned their minds, ever aware that one person's fate dangles precariously in the balance. Their criticism could make or break a career.

Personally, I think I did a smashing job in my teevee debut.

Oh, there was the tension, all right. I hadn't been before the lights since my sterling debut at 13.

My mother thought I was great in '58 as I shook before KPIX' mammoth, mid-day audience. Grandmother said I blinked too much and sent me to an optometrist.

The glasses have been part of the act ever since. All of which meant nothing compared to the drama of that Tuesday night at the Pleasanton Hotel.

I knew I was a star when those would-be Irishmen tried playing me with Scotch. You can't fool an old pro. They may have said they wanted those questions I would pose for the candidates. But with all that groping and ego stroking, I know it was my autograph.

To think that after I'd spent an hour meticulously researching the candidates' weak spots that they could have bribed me with one Scotch and water is ridiculous. A case of 12-year-old and we could have negotiated.

Make-up for the CARD sponsored production was in keeping with the new, natural look.

I had long since relegated my blue-plaid leisure suit and white shoes and belt to more benign occasions. For this I would wear my affected office look: pale blue Yves St. Laurent shirt ($22), red Christian Dior tie ($11), deep brown R/A slacks ($45), matching, highly polished executive boots ($65), and svelte, corduroy sport coat (no comment).

The black-and-white production simply does not do it justice.

The crowd, of course, was overwhelming — seriously.

With a 7:30 p.m. starting time, we had to buck the back half of Star Trek, all of Tony Orlando and Dawn, and, unless you were a quick sprinter, Rich Man Poor Man. Those hundred or so politically unapathetic who turned out did democracy proud.

To say nothing of their taste in entertainment. Directors positioned us carefully around Judge Mark Eaton, with the Herald and Alleged News' Nancy Ward on the far right (Hmmm?), The Independent's Bob Several in the center (Never!), and Modesty Forbids to the left (A distinct possibility, what?).

The judge was the true trouper, though. Thirty minutes he went without a cigarette. A quick break while the ground crew re-wound the tape and rearranged the furniture and he was back for another smokeless 30 minutes. Remarkable.

All the more impressive when you note the stock pile of ashtrays I'd stacked on the floor next to us.

But, says I to myself: "If the judge can do it, so can you." And, thus, the Chimney of Spring Street did his bit for clean air in an arena known for its smoke filled rooms.

I don't know how we fared this past Wednesday when the tape was shown via Channel 10. Who wants fact to clutter up opinion. After all, Democracy in action may be the foundation of our government, but it's damn hard to buck the Bionic Woman.

Especially when the previews looked so good for a change.

While my debut assuredly took the valley and teevee by storm, there's something formidable in outdressing those six-million-dollar legs. Besides, her wardrobe probably cost more.

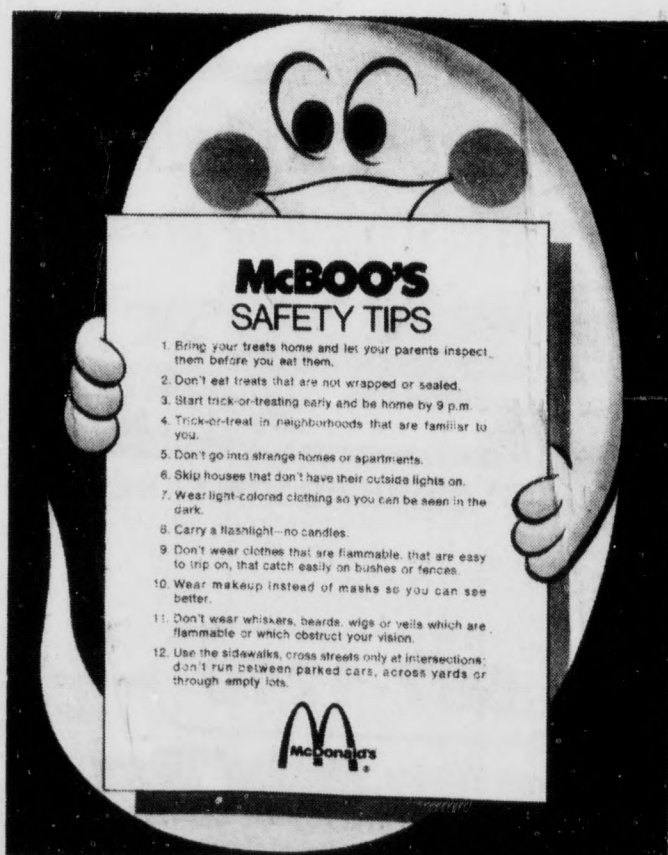

Now, if we'd have had Happy Howard Cosell and his band of merry illiterates for competition, we'd have knocked the Nielsen needle into next week.

But such is fate. There is, after all, providence in the fall of a sparrow.

We might have bumped heads with Ding and Dong and sent Murphy and Raymond into a race for the White House.

Barbara Walters better watch her stuff.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't lean on your friends too heavily today. You could cause serious repercussions and a mixup that would be tough to unravel.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The goals you set will be difficult to achieve today without the support of key people. Don't alienate necessary allies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be very careful working today. You have a tendency to do things the hard way. What's more, your methods could unnervingly work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Mind your own business today. Butting-in could earn you a rebuff in no uncertain terms, if not a fat lip.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Decision-making could be taken out of your hands today by more assertive associates. Better speak up if you sense they're leading you astray.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you plan work in an orderly way. Today, you're likely to be haphazard, and so will the results be.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is not a good day for you to take financial flyers. If you do decide to bet on the if-comes, at least be aware of the odds.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do nothing of which you're uncertain today. Even if you have to swallow your pride, figure ways to back down gracefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone who puts his confidence in you will be disappointed when he learns you broadcast his secret. Have excuses ready.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friend who has never repaid you in the past may try to put the bite on you again today. Think about how to handle this poor risk.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People in high places are not about to grant you favors today. Don't embarrass yourself by asking.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your hunches today aren't reliable, but they will have a strong influence on your outlook. Think twice before heeding that inner voice.

Oct. 29, 1976

You are likely to make several important changes this year. The results will be fruitful provided you think through before acting.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The unlucky expert looked so happy that we knew he had another real hard luck story for us.

He had been playing duplicate and showed us today's hand.

He pointed out that practically every South player opened with four spades and played it there. Sometimes it was doubled by West. In all cases West opened an ace — usually the diamond. Then he would proceed to cash his other two aces and would note that his partner would play the three of hearts, deuce of diamonds and 10 of clubs. Then West would lead a second club and a ruff would set the contract.

"What happened to you?" we asked. "Did West double you and then give his partner two clubs ruffs?"

"No!" he replied. "I sat West. It seems North and South were playing a silly convention that an opening bid of three notrump showed a seven or eight-card solid suit and nothing on the side. South opened three notrump. Everyone passed and South made four notrump for an absolute top."

As our friend said, it is a silly convention, but everything works once in a while.

Ask the Jacobys

A North Dakota reader wants to know what you bid with:

♠ A 10 8 5 ♥ K J 9 7 2 ♦ Q J 7 4 3
Both sides are vulnerable and the bidding has gone: 3 spades, pass, pass.

The correct bid is to pass and let your opponent struggle with three spades.

Pipeline $$$ support documented

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — Proposals of Proposition U, the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency "super sewer" pipeline measure, have collected $2,940, according to records on file with the county registrar, and spent some $2,100.

Major contributors include Rhodes and Jamieson Gravel Co. ($400), and the Morici Corp. of San Jose ($400) and Willow West Properties, San Jose ($250). Singer Housing gave $200 and Valley Realty $150. One-hundred dollar contributions came from J. A. Jenks Co. of Pleasanton; Hutka's First Street Development, Livermore; and MacKay and Sumps Engineers.

Pleasanton City Manager Bill Edgar, the Pleasanton Development Co., Amador Medical Park, Pleasanton Cabinet Shop, Sunset Development of Livermore, The Association of Professions, Inc., Pearson Realty of Livermore, DeMar Baron Pool Plastering of Dublin, Continental Pool Construction of Livermore and MacKay and Sumps engineer Ted C. Fairfield each donated $50.

The committee's major expense was for newspaper advertising with $875 to the Pleasanton/Valley Times, $694 to the Herald and News, $484 for printing and $50 to Livermore High School for delivery of brochures.

Other campaign filings include:

• Valley First Committee: $5,495 collected, $3,819 spent. Incumbent county supervisor John D. Murphy received $902 from the committee, and incumbent Bay Area Rapid Transit District Director Robert Allen $200.

Major contributors include Columbia Associates of Hayward ($500), apparently the law firm of John Thorpe. No "occupation" was listed in the campaign disclosure form, an apparent violation of the State Fair Political Practices Commission regulation.

The bulk of the committee's expenditures went to newspaper advertising. Pleasanton/Valley Times: $321; Herald and News: $490; and The Independent: $85.50.

• Political Action Coalition for the Environment (PACE): $1,712 in receipts, $1,150 in expenditures. The major contribution came from East Bay Regional Park Employees local 2428 of Oakland ($300).

Statements were not filed by any committees of pipeline opponents, or those taking positions either for or against the Livermore tax override for police and fire, or the county's fire safety measure.

Forum endorses cityhood

DANVILLE — The Valley Action Forum has announced their support of Measure K the incorporation issue being presented on the Nov. 2 election ballot.

Ed Hooper, Jr., president of VAF, stated the members voted unanimously for the decision Wednesday night. Hooper said, "The VAF strongly urges San Ramon Valley citizens to vote yes on the incorporation Measure K. Local government can provide coordinated planning. They will consider development in the light of availability of school facilities, public services and protection of the environment."

community and not in Martinez. The cities of Lafayette, Pleasant Hill and Moraga have demonstrated that these achievements require no increase in tax rates."

"Furthermore," he added, "Incorporation will make the valley eligible for funds which would otherwise go to other areas of the county."

"Incorporation will also substantially improve police services," he continued. "Decisions of a local nature should be made in the com-

Councilman on pipeline

LIVERMORE — Councilman Glen Dahlbacka has issued a statement with "food for thought about the costs of Measure 'U'."

"To pay for the proposed project your sewer charges will be approximately $30-$40 or the equivalent of .30-.40 per $100 of assessed valuation," he said.

Dahlbacka argues the federal and state government will fund 87 per cent the 15.6 million gallons per day (MGD) pipeline.

"This is enough for the adopted growth policies in the valley," he said.

"The proposed project has 19.7 MGD of capacity," the Livermore councilman notes. Of this amount, "4.1 MGD is for industrial use."

"We have to put up all the money for the excess industrial capacity," he complained.

"It is unlikely that all the industrial capacity will be used," said Dahlbacka, "since our best estimates are that only one MGD of industrial capacity can be used."

"In order to use the 4.2 MGD we would need a new Lawrence Livermore Lab every 24 months for 20 years or a new Kaiser Research Center every six months for 20 years," he said.

"Even if every worker was employed locally we would still need only two MGD of industrial capacity," Dahlbacka argued future costs of the project include additional unfunded plant expansion, higher taxes if the capacity is diverted to excessive residential growth and all the other costs associated with extra air pollution.

"Additional expenses can be anticipated because this isn't the right project anyway," said Dahlbacka. "Reclamation and re-use are desirable and will be necessary under evolving policies," he noted. "Why waste a valuable resource?"

He signed his statement as a member of the Valley Residents Committee.

Will it be low?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's turnout for next Tuesday's presidential election is expected to be the lowest percentage since Calvin Coolidge was elected in 1924, the Secretary of State said Wednesday.

March Fong Eu's office reported that nearly 500,000 fewer persons were registered to vote than 1972. The total is 9,976,875, compared to 10,466,215 four years ago.

Ms. Eu said she expects a 79 per cent turnout, lowest since 73.3 per cent turned out to elect the Republican, Coolidge, over Democrat John Davis and Progressive Robert LaFollette.

First Christmas shopping event of the season is the Valley Craft Guild's third annual show and sale opening today at the Livermore Holiday Inn. Local artisans such as Joyce Callaghan and Bonnie Schmidt are featured in the extravaganza of handmade crafts Friday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday (Oct. 30) from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free, and all visitors will be given an index with information on all participating artisans.

A budgeting idea dies in council

PLEASANTON — Each council member ought to be responsible for one city department, become thoroughly familiar with it, and use the knowledge wisely at budget time, Councilman Ken Mercer suggested Monday night. Mercer thinks that if a council member can be responsible for learning the workings of one department, he or she can report back, especially at budget time, on the needs of that department.

The council member would be able to see whether a budget item is needed or not, said Mercer.

Mayor Robert Philcox liked the idea, but felt that it would take 100 per cent participation by the council to be effective. Since some council members may not have time to get thorough knowledge of a department, it probably would not work, said Philcox.

"It's a good thought, but I don't know if we are all willing," said Philcox. He mentioned that he felt he is giving enough time to his city council job now.

Vice-mayor Joyce LeClaire said that "council members may try to take too active a role in the departments." No one took up Mercer on his idea and it appears to have died.

The idea was somewhat reminiscent of the earlier form of the city's government when one council member was the police commissioner, another was the street commissioner and so on. The difference was that in those small town days of 20 years ago and more the council member had the power to hire and fire in the department which he or she controlled. Now the city manager has that power and is responsible ultimately to the entire city council.

More tenant parking

PLEASANTON — It won't help existing apartments, but tenants in future multiple developments will find they will have more offstreet parking to offer their guests thanks to a city council action Monday night.

The council voted unanimously to require future multiple construction to provide an offstreet parking space for every seven units in the building.

The council also will require future multiple developments to provide two spaces for every unit containing three or more bedrooms. Current zoning requires 1.5 spaces for each of those big units.

Good taste program

Lesh News Bureau

MARTINEZ — A lot of flavor went into the county's emergency food program this past month when the Food Coalition received 7,200 bunches of green onions.

Ed Rimer, director of the program, said the onions were only a small part of a bigger shipment that went to the Santa Cruz program.

"They got 1,000 cases in all and we took 150 off their hands," he said.

Happily during the same week, the coalition also received a donation of 79 cases of tortilla chips.

Now if we only had gotten some avocados," laughed Rimer. "We really could have had a fine dip."

The onions and tortilla chips were distributed this October along with $3,000 worth of other food donations to the 19 emergency pantries in the county.

Rimer reported that the coalition received $800 worth of food from the Four Jay Corp. through sources in a Pleasant Hill church.

"It was really something. We got frozen steak, shrimps and scallops," Rimer added.

He said that two county churches which do not have pantries of their own will be donating to the program on a regular basis. The two are Temple Isaiah in Lafayette and St. Timothy's in Danville.

The pantries, for the most part, are operated by churches and community groups. Food is provided for three days to families which have an emergency.

The program, which combines the resources of public and private agencies, recently lost its federal funding.

The Lafayette Safeway Store manager, Howard Long, has written a letter to the county Board of Supervisors supporting the program.

Lift it right

SAN RAMON — Ouch!

Strained the back again, trying to lift a box of books. Is there a better way?

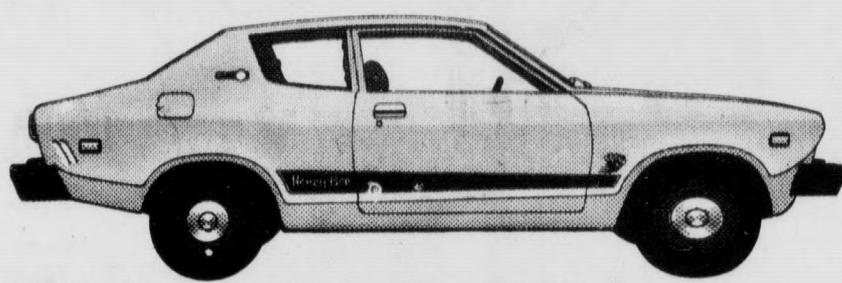

Proper techniques of lifting will be taught at a Tuesday morning class on body mechanics at the Family Medical Center of Valley Memorial Hospital, 8-10 a.m. on Nov. 9.

The course will be taught by Ann Emery, a registered physical therapist. Included will be demonstrations, a film and individual supervised practice on learning correct posture and proper techniques of lifting to help avoid back strain and industrial accidents due to improper lifting.

The class is limited to 20 students. To register and for further information, call Valley Memorial Hospital's public information office, 447-7000, ext. 153, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

General swine flu clinic

SAN RAMON — An evening swine flu clinic for the general public is scheduled for Wednesday (Nov. 3) at the Family Medical Center of Valley Memorial Hospital, 9260 Alcosta Blvd.

The clinic is 4 - 8:30 p.m. for children, the elderly, high risk patients and anyone else who needs a shot. Children with a chronic illness between the ages of 3 and 17 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. These children will receive a supplementary shot in a month.

The free immunizations will be given in the community lecture room. Two different vaccines will be used:

- Monovalent vaccine for protection against swine flu for most persons 18 and over.
- Bivalent vaccine for protection against swine flu and Victoria flu for those 60 and over and for anyone with a chronic illness such as diabetes or heart, lung or kidney trouble.

All those receiving shots will be asked to sign a consent form. The inoculations are not recommended for anyone allergic to eggs, chickens, chicken feathers or chicken dander. Anyone with a fever should wait until their temperature is less than 100 before being vaccinated.

Administering the vaccine will be volunteer nurses from the Family Medical Center and Valley Memorial Hospital and members of the VMH auxiliary. The clinic is sponsored by the center in conjunction with the Contra Costa County health department.

Also assisting will be Licensed Vocational Nurse trainees from Valley Memorial Hospital and members of the VMH auxiliary. The clinic is sponsored by the center in conjunction with the Contra Costa County health department.

California's turnout way off

BERKELEY (AP) — The turnout for swine flu shots in California has been much less than anticipated because people were scared by the deaths of several elderly persons, a state health official said today.

"The momentum of it has slowed down in a lot of areas because of public concern generated by the media," said Dr. James Chin, chief of the state Department of Health infectious disease section. "Even though I think it's been clear to everybody that the data doesn't show a direct association with the deaths and the vaccine, it's still something that has scared the public."

Several elderly persons died after receiving swine flu shots in Pennsylvania, although coroner reports later said the vaccine was not the cause of the deaths.

"Once you put an element of doubt in people's minds, it's almost impossible to dispell it," Chin said. Health department officials said 291,691 doses of the vaccine had been administered in 38 counties by Oct. 21 and most other counties plan to start their programs this week.

ATU blasts 13

Citing Proposition 13 as a "fundamentally unsound measure," the California Taxpayers' Association has recommended a "no" vote on the controversial dog race gambling initiative.

"After a very careful analysis of the issue, the association concluded that Proposition 13 offers no benefits to the taxpayer to offset the probable costs involved," said Kirk West, executive vice president for the statewide taxpayers' group.

Cesar believes in private property rights too.

"La Paz" (The Peace), Cesar Chavez's United Farmworkers Compound. Keene, California. Thursday, October 21, 1976.

Access without permission is wrong.

It usually takes a court order for even the police to enter private property.

Proposition 14 would allow labor organizers (not government officials) to enter farmers' property without a court order. Without even the farmers' knowledge or permission.

The Access Rule in Proposition 14 sets a dangerous legal precedent.

Access without permission is wrong. It was wrong when it was first suggested, and it is wrong now.

It would be wrong next year if it happened to your business or your home.

Proposition 14 has become a test vote on private property rights, and the entire nation is watching.

Your NO vote on Tuesday, November 2, will tell our elected officials that you want private property rights respected and that trespassing is still wrong.

But private property rights are not the only reason to vote NO on Proposition 14. It is seriously flawed in other important ways.

PROPOSITION 14 VIOLATES FARM WORKERS' PRIVACY. Payroll lists with the names and addresses of non-union farm employees would have to be made available, on demand, for labor organizers. Without the employees' knowledge or permission.

PROPOSITION 14 IS AN ATTEMPT TO FORCE BLANK CHECK FINANCING for the Agricultural Labor Relations Board. With none of the normal legislative checks and balances.

For instance, it would give the Board's members (all appointees of the Governor) salaries of $42,500 a year — about the same as Federal Judges — and the Legislature couldn't change it.

PROPOSITION 14 WOULD BE LOCKED IN CEMENT LIKE THE CONSTITUTION and could only be changed by another statewide ballot election. Nothing this long and complicated should be out of the control of our elected representatives and left up to insulated non-elected political appointees.

The "Yes on 14" campaign has been the most negative in recent memory. Nothing positive has been offered to the people of California to justify Proposition 14's passage.

It has nothing constructive to offer, and its backers have had nothing constructive to say.

Proposition 14 deserves the most resounding NO vote ever cast for a ballot proposition in California's history.

NO on 14.

Dave Weber Innuendo of the tape On Sports

Well, sports fans, they're finally over. Jimmy Earl Carter, the young challenger from Georgia, ripped a page from Muhammad Ali's tactic book and rope-adoped his way to a win over Wolverine Rudy Ford in Superflap Two, but the champ earned split decisions in numerals I and III to render the series nearly worthless.

In Los Angeles, Young Tunney, feared mostly for his father's reputation, pounded away at, but could not flatten 70-year old Canadian immigrant, Battling Hayakawa.

And closer to home, newcomer Valerie Raymond and incumbent Bob Murphy stung each other for the edification of the voter at the Pleasanton Hotel.

And, once again, politicians have been reduced to seeking refuge in the world of sports.

The once - beloved Richard Nixon fairly reveled in the lexicon of fun and games.

He stressed "game plans," "quarterbacking," and "audibles" while easing the news to the American people that their planes would soon defoliated three - quarters of Indo-China.

At times, he waxed obnoxious. Confronted by angry, protesting students at the Washington Monument, the ex-Whittier College tackle, befuddled the youthful zealots by discussing the merits of their campus football team.

Then there was the notorious play he called for George Allen of the Redskins in Super Bowl VII — the close to the vest cure for insomnia in which Washington was shut out, save an absurd touchdown interception of a frightened Garo Yepremian's pass by Mike Bass.

During his eight year absence from public office — following the disastrous defeats to Irish Johnny Kennedy in their 1960 play-off gabfests — Nixon was offered both the commissioners jobs in baseball and basketball.

While in the White House, the erstwhile Tricky Dick mused that had he not entered politics, he would have liked to have been a sports writer. Believe this humble scribe, folks, that's a BIIIG come down.

He even went so far as to name his all-time baseball teams for the wire services to flash around the country. Of course, the genuine sportswriters, most of whom would shudder at the idea of the presidency, were quick to leap all over it, exposing what they claimed were numerous flaws.

But then, Ronald Reagan began his adult life as an Iowa sportscaster tagged with the predictable sobriquet, "Dutch." Only Jim Lange's "Biffer" is less subtle.

As early as 1905, Teddy Roosevelt saved football by first declaring the increasingly deadly game illegal and following up with presidential rule changes that brought in the forward pass and took the game out of the dark ages.

Kennedy swam and played football for Harvard while Lyndon Johnson constantly referred to Ford's failure to remember his headgear while Jerry was earning Shrine Game honors as a center for the University of Michigan.

Some of Congress' nastier wags retorted that Johnson had attended too many rodeos without his boots on.

But it is fact that Ford worked his way through Yale law school as an assistant to the Elis frosh football coach.

It really hasn't been any trick for a well-known ex-jock to plant himself into the lower echelons of government. Former Pirate and Cardinal pitcher Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell gave the House one of its more memorable nicknames when he out-poled a Democratic foe in Arkansas.

Olympic decathlon champion Bob Mathias and Buffalo Bills quarterback Jack Kemp both represented California districts and former 49er tackle Bob St. Clair sat on the Board of Supervisors in San Mateo County.

Adding an international flavor is San Jose Earthquake midfielder Antonio Simoes. After the recent political and military upheavals in his native Portugal, Simoes was selected to represent citizens living abroad in the Portuguese parliament.

With roots sunk that deeply into the people's common denominator Sport — it's not unusual for politicians to emulate their usually more popular, and sweatier, counterparts. Witness the traditional "first-ball" ritual at, where else, Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in Washington.

So, in a year when public interest in the forthcoming elections is probably at the lowest point in 201 years, the candidates scrambled to adopt the clashing format of a debate to get themselves before the people.

Then they deliberately enshrouded them with the atmosphere of a major heavyweight fight.

DANVILLE — Monte Vista High School's young tennis team enters the East Bay Athletic League Tournament at Granada High School today (8 a.m.) bolstered by the knowledge it ranks as one of the top prep teams in the East Bay Area.

The Mustangs lived up to that billing with a resounding 7-0 victory over Livermore on the Monte Vista courts here yesterday to cinch the EBAL round-robin championship.

In another EBAL match yesterday Granada gained second place with a convincing 7-0 victory over Dublin. Foothill took a forfeit win over Amador Valley.

Granada finished with a fine 12-2 mark in EBAL action but that was no match for the Mustangs' perfect 14-0 mark.

The Matadors' best chance in the tournament today would seem to be in the doubles competition where Chris Watchmaker and Paul Hurdlow have played together all year and compiled an impressive record.

Monte Vista wasted no time in wrapping up the title against the Cowboys, who finished the schedule with an 8-5 record.

The Mustangs won four of the five singles matches and both doubles matches in two sets.

Freshman Tripp Gordon rallied from a 5-4 deficit in the second set to take a 6-3, 7-5 victory over Livermore's Steve Willford in the top-seeded match of the day.

Trapp, who will be Monte Vista's top-seeded player in the singles division of the EBAL tournament, usually wins his matches in two sets, but had to struggle somewhat against Willford.

The second set was tied several times before the stocky Mustang scored three straight times to win the match.

Doug Stone, a transfer from Leland of San Jose, won the second-seeded match with a 6-3, 6-1 decision over Phil Newkirk.

Stone, who has shared the top-seeded spot with Gordon this season, will go in the second-seeds today.

In other singles matches Guy Schalin of Monte Vista topped Scott Willford, 6-2, 6-3 and Dan Bergmann beat Vern Cedarland, 6-2, 6-3.

In the only match that went three sets Dave Parker topped Todd Larson, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Doubles competition saw Van Schalin and Jeff Southwick of the Mustangs topple Ken Kemp and Mark Johansen, 6-0, 6-1 in the first match. Roger Crawford and Chuck Horton came back to defeat Tom Nevin and Rene Meyer, 6-2, 6-3 in the second one.

Bergmann was the only senior that competed for Monte Vista yesterday. The rest of the players are freshmen, sophomores and a few juniors.

What's the key to the Monte Vista success? "A lot of our young freshmen and sophomore players have competed in Junior Davis Cup and some national meets," said Mustang coach Floyd Baker.

"These meets have a lot more pressure and tension involved in them and our young players therefore have adjusted to playing in tough situations."

The closest victory Monte Vista has had this season was a 5-2 decision over Foothill but that was when several of the Mustangs' top players didn't compete.

Baker is already looking beyond the EBAL tournament.

"We're trying to see if we can schedule a non-league match with Northgate of the Diablo Valley Athletic League," he admitted.

"They're the class of that league and we would really like to meet them."

"Some people who have seen both of our teams play say Northgate might have the advantage. They're a little bit older and more experienced than us. But it would still be a good match. You never can tell the way our kids have progressed this season."

In case anyone is wondering whether Monte Vista has any weaknesses at all their junior varsity team went undefeated this season.

With all that talent Monte Vista should be an awesome obstacle for EBAL tennis teams for at least the next three years. —by Gary Brown

Warriors beat 'Blazers

OAKLAND — Golden State Warriors belatedly got into the win column with a convincing 112-92 win over the visiting Portland Trail Blazers before a crowd of 8,353 last night at the Coliseum Arena.

Rick Barry led the Warriors with 34 casually scored points but it was reserve guard Charles Dudley who did the Blazers in. Stirring up trouble everywhere he went, Dudley scored 19 points and tied Derrick Dickey for the Warrior rebounding lead with 12.

Bill Walton again hurt the Warriors, scoring 21 points and grabbing 17 rebounds.

The Warriors' starters didn't stay in long. Within a three-minute span of the first period, coach Al Attles replaced everyone but captain Rick Barry. With the Blazers doing little to justify their 24-21 quarter break lead, Golden State's guards were particularly lax.

Charles Johnson, whose streak shooting earned him a chilly 1-5 from the field and Phil Smith, though he led the Warriors with six points, terminated drives out high in favor of off-balanced jumpers.

After four minutes, Portland was warned for playing a zone defense, but it was probably more a case of the Blazers not wanting to expend energy chasing a team that was stopping itself.

But, as they did in Tuesday's loss to the same club Charles Dudley gave the Warriors a lift when he entered with six minutes gone.

He scored on a finger-roll over the intimidating Bill Walton and bluffed veteran guard Dave Twardzik into a traveling violation at the other end.

But the second of Walton's soaring hooks and a brief return of the racehorse play that has typified the "new" Blazers kept them ahead.

However, with a rejuvenated Smith canning a pair of clutch jump shots and powerful Derrick Dickey feeding and following inside Golden State took a trio of brief leads in the second period.

The third came with 2:29 to go in the half, as rookie Robert Parish bounded into the lane for a one-handed stuff.

on the day of Superblab II, scheduled for the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

They read, "Closed Circuit TV! FORD vs. CARTER." It's doubtful that promoter Joe Gagliardi's ads for his upcoming Ron Lyle-Jimmy Young fight will be much different.

And the candidates didn't behave much differently. They "trained" for the debates, were followed by reporters every waking moment in the days immediately prior to the event and then, disappointingly, said little to change any voter's convictions.

Not much different than Ali-Ken Norton or Ali-Young, in which the champ looked sick, but still got the decision.

It is possible that Carter will take Ford's presidential seal in the same manner that Ali swiped former Livermore resident George Foreman's heavyweight boxing crown in 1974.

After months of training in the tropic climes of Zaire, Muhammad did nothing but lay on the ropes and allow Foreman to punch himself out. Only then did he make a move against the by-then-torpid Texan.

Carter, meanwhile, has campaigned for 22 months and said and done very little. But when Ford erred with his remarks about the supposed lack of Soviet domination in East Europe — POW! Forget the rope-a-dope, we now have the "slip-a-dip."

But an overpublicized television-inspired word battle between two contenders, er, candidates, is essentially a poor way to decide an election.

One final word, as long as we're guiding the sports page through the unfamiliar realm of politics, I can't understand all the flap over Proposition 13. What's wrong with Greyhound racing?

If those idiots want to take their commuter buses down to Fremont Raceway for a few grudge drags, let 'em...

Amador topples 'Stangs

Danville — Amador Valley High School's novice team provided the winning points as the Dons' girls gymnastics team took a surprising 105-91 victory over host Monte Vista here yesterday afternoon.

Raquel Gomes won all her events for the Dons' novice athletes to spark the victory.

Lynn Eising, Diane Carson and Donna Fox also stood out in the novice division.

On the advanced level Amador Valley had no competitors so Joeline Gaffney and Kathy Chapman of the Mustangs won all the points.

June Gaffney of Monte Vista captured four events, the floor exercise, balance beam, vaulting and bars for the Mustangs. She won the all-around competition in that division.

Vicki Vandervoort of Monte Vista captured the bars to spark her team to a narrow 42-38 lead in the beginner's competition. Several other Mustang athletes also performed well in that division.

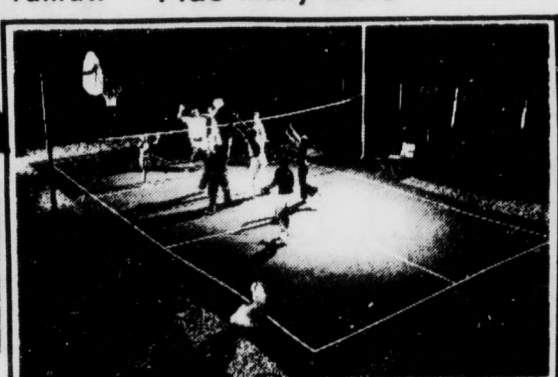

Amador Valley is now 3-0 in East Bay Athletic League competition while the Mustangs dropped to 2-1.

Matador spikers win

Lynn Kranich saved Granada from extinction in the second game while Mary Bosque provided the final points for a third game victory in a close 12-15, 16-14, 15-11 win over Livermore in East Bay Athletic League girls' volleyball action yesterday.

Had it not been for Kranich's serve points when the Matadors were down 14-11 in the second game, Livermore would have walked away with an upset win over Granada, who kept a share of first place with a 9-3 record. Livermore drops to 5-7.

Both teams played with-in points of each other in the final game, with the final score being the largest point spread. Livermore rallied from a 10-7 deficit to go ahead 11-10 on the strength of serves by Lee Hardiman, Paula Ng and Donna Digrazia. Digrazia served for seven points in the Pokes' opening set win including the last five-in a row.

Lynn Bousliman served the final points in the second set victory while Mary Ledezma and Bosque served high point, combining for eight serve points.

Livermore blew a chance to take it all in the second set. Ahead 14-11 a Poke player hit an errant net serve, setting up Granada's drive.

In other EBAL competition yesterday Amador Valley knocked Monte Vista out of a first place tie, 13-15, 15-10, 15-10 and Dublin edged out California, 6-15, 15-9, 15-11.

Carmen Macon led Amador with 14 serves and four spikes. Karin Fischer had 12 saves and Carl Dolsby 11 for the Mustangs. Dolsby also had five spikes.

Linda Doyle and JoAnn Callender sparked Dublin's win. Jodie Catala and Sherine Carr stood out for the losers.

California won the junior varsity contest, 16-14, 15-4. Monte Vista's jvs won, 15-14, 5-15, 15-8.

Granada girls unbeaten

Granada High School's varsity cross-country team completed a winning season and the Matador girls remained undefeated as Monte Vista fell before the hosts yesterday afternoon in East Bay Athletic League competition.

Jeff Cowling edged out teammate Don Lyons as both runners clocked 16:58 on the three-mile course in the varsity race. Granada won, 21-37.

The Matadors ended the season with a 4-3 record.

Arlene Daley defeated her sister Karen to win the girls' race. She was timed in 11:25 and Karen had a 11:36.

Granada won the girls' score with a 15-36 total.

Time for New Look

Valerie Raymond, a bright and energetic candidate for the 1st District seat on the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, can give southern Alameda County voters a chance to reestablish communications with their county government.

The sprawling 1st District is one that deserves more attention because of its vast areas of unincorporated land where decisions must be made on orderly growth and use of its resources.

A county government that has been plagued with problems of strikes, fiscal problems and confrontations with cities over growth within their "spheres of influence" needs a supervisor who can pay attention to the district and communicate with its citizens.

Raymond has pledged to be visible and accessible in the district and to work to make county government open to citizen participation. In that line, she advocates night meetings by the board and more accessibility to county employees by the citizens they serve.

She is calling for monthly meetings with mayors of Alameda County cities and more cooperation between county and city planning staffs to bring about more orderly growth patterns in suburban areas.

She is urging closer cooperation among county, state and federal representatives.

The 1st Supervisorial District deserves a supervisor who will give more respect and attention to the job. We believe Valerie Raymond can do that. It's time for a change.

The Tribune recommends her election to the board.

We believe that Valerie can do the job.

Raiders may get Mann

OAKLAND — Veteran placekicker Errol Mann, a free agent, worked out with the Oakland Raiders Thursday and it appeared he might be signed to take over for injured rookie Fred Steinfort in Sunday's game against the Denver Broncos.

The Raiders faced the decision of whether to place Steinfort on the injured reserve list, which would make him ineligible the rest of the National Football League season, or dropping another player to make room for Mann.

Running back Terry Kunz, another rookie, also has a minor injury. Free agent Hubie Ginn, onetime Miami Dolphin, was showing his stuff along with Mann at Thursday's workout.

Mann, 35, was with the Detroit Lions from 1969 until two weeks ago when he was released. Steinfort, from Boston College, has a pulled groin muscle, and his only two extra point attempts last Sunday were blocked by the Green Bay Packers' Fred Carr. — by Associated Press

PERTH, Australia — Tim Gullikson upset Bill Scanlon 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 and advanced to the quarter-finals of a $40,000 international tennis tournament.

INTENT TO PREPARE AN ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT
PROJECT DESIGNATION:
GP-76-6

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, rezoning application GP-76-6 has been determined to require an environmental impact report.

The project consists of changing the land use designation of an approximately 66 acre parcel of land located between the Youth Sports Park and the Arroyo Mocho just east of Hopwood Road from "Parks and Recreation" to "Medium Density Residential." Such a change would allow the ultimate construction of roughly 300 single family residences on the site presently designated for the expansion of the Youth Sports Park.

The proposed general plan amendment conflicts with the adopted environmental plans and goals of the General Plan by replacing a future park site with residential development and by the loss of prime and potentially prime agricultural soils to urbanization. In addition, urbanization of the site may expose future residents to earthquake hazards and flood hazards as parts of the site within the N.E. A Flood Hazard Area and the Alquist-Prullo Special Studies Zone. Development of the site may also impinge upon the existing Youth Sports Park with its traffic circulation pattern and resultant noise and air pollution. It is the finding of the City Manager that this project might create, to a significant degree, environmental effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals on this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date of publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, which ever is later, this decision will become effective.

RZ-76-18

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, rezoning application RZ-76-18 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of rezoning all the properties north of Vineyard Avenue, south of the Arroyo del Valle, and from First Street east to the city limit line (approximately 2,400 feet east of First Street) from the RM-1500 District (about 6.5 acres) and RM-2500 District (about 28 acres) to the RM-4000 District. Each of these districts is a "multiple Family Residential" district, with the RM-1500 being the city's most dense classification and RM-4000 being the least dense multiple residential district. In addition, two parcels located on the south side of Vineyard Avenue — a vacant site about 4.8 acres between Adams Way and Mavis Drive and a single lot of about 0.2 acres located at 407 Mavis Drive — would be rezoned from the RM-2500 District to the R-1-6500 District (Single Family Residential, Medium Density).

The reduction in the potential number of dwelling units which could be built as a result of this rezoning would reduce the possibility of further exacerbating the already crowded Vineyard Avenue. Since the residential density would be reduced, environmental impacts associated with development, should it occur, would likely be diminished compared to the impacts associated with development under the existing zoning. October 29, 1976

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, general plan amendment GP-76-5 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of changing the land use designation of an approximately 6.5 acre parcel of land from "Public and Institutional" to "General and Limited Industrial." The site is a vacant parcel of ground bisected by Sonoma Drive, the area extends from Sunol Boulevard on the west to a line parallel to Sunol Boulevard approximately 600 feet east of Sunol Boulevard and extends approximately 250 feet north and south of Sonoma Drive.

Although the site is joined on two sides by residential uses, the area has been previously planned for industrial and the existing street and utilities have been constructed to industrial use standards. Aside from the compatibility of industrial uses to residential properties, the site has no known impediments to industrial development. Any future industrial use desiring to locate in this area would be subject to specific environmental assessment prior to development, enabling the city to assess the compatibility of proposed industrial developments to the neighboring residential uses. It is the finding of the City Manager that this general plan amendment would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

Application of Richard Clauser for a variance to Section 2.5.41(6) of Article 3, Chapter 2, Title II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton to allow the construction of an unenclosed patio cover which encroaches into the required side yard setback of the property located at 7540 Olive Drive.

The Board of Adjustment may approve, modify or deny the application, or recommend to the City Council any action deemed in the public interest.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the hearing shall be held and persons concerned shall be heard by the Planning Commission.

CITY OF PLEASANTON
NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A
NEGATIVE DECLARATION
PROJECT DESIGNATION:
UP-76-31, 7-26-204

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, the Oak Tree Center shopping center application — UP-76-31, 7-26-204 — has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of the construction and use of a shopping center complex on a 5.4 acre parcel of land located at the northeast corner of Valley Avenue and Hopwood Road. The westerly portion, 3.6 acres zoned Central Commercial District, would contain a 20,800 square foot market and 19,400 square foot retail shops in one building. Future development would be a separate 3,432 square foot restaurant fronting on Hopwood Road. The westerly 1.8 acres, zoned Public and Institutional District, would contain off-street parking for the shopping center and in the future would contain a 4,000 square foot office building. Off-street parking and landscaping would be provided.

The use of this site for commercial purposes would be consistent with its location fronting on two major streets and across the street from an existing shopping center. While the property was initially shown to be within a flood zone, subsequent maps have shown it to be above the future 100 year flood level. There are no physical obstacles to development. The Public and Institutional District, the least residential properties was intended as a buffer to protect these residences from excessive noise. The proposal, placing a parking lot in this location, would increase the noise levels in the yards and homes of these residences but would not be expected to exceed noise standards for residential areas. It is the finding of the City Manager that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date of publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, which ever is later, this decision will become effective.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A
NEGATIVE DECLARATION
PROJECT DESIGNATION:
RZ-76-16

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, rezoning application RZ-76-16 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of an application to rezone an approximately 8,450 square foot parcel of land located at 4224 Stanley Boulevard (immediately east of the Pleasanton Body Shop building) from C-5 (Service Commercial) District to either the O-Office or C-C (Central Commercial) District.

The objective of the change is to allow the use of the existing building for doctor's offices.

The change from one commercial district designation to another of an already developed site, located in an urbanized area has few environmental effects. An office use could attract more traffic than a typical service commercial use, but it would likely be quieter than its service commercial counterpart. Because of the developed nature of the site and the already present commercial zoning, the City Manager finds that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals on this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date of publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, which ever is later, this decision will become effective.

MORE LETTERS. . .

Raymond vs. Murphy

Mud slinging campaign

Editor, The Times:

I am sorry to see the mud slinging in the County Supervisor race. In particular, the draping of the English flag on the caricature of Valerie Raymond in ads is a perversion of patriotism. I can think of nothing more proud than to say, "I am an American citizen." Being a naturalized American is having a gift that is the envy of the world. Why should such status then be denigrated by the Valley First Committee? I am afraid that they are preaching xenophobia in the same manner as ... Nazi-Bund style of pre-World War II. . .

I called a spokesperson for Valley First to ask why the English flag. She said because it "identified" the candidate Raymond. . . "If they are slinging mud through their (?) paper, then we'll sling mud through our paper." She stated that their purpose was to sling mud if necessary to get their views across!

I feel sorry for their candidate. . . The issues are open government and tax supported expenditures, not dirty backyards and born - Americans more equal than others. I personally have heard Murphy speak only honorably to the issues. I hope he has the decency to reject this rabid fringe called Valley First (Ueber Alles).

Larry Bakken
Attorney, Livermore

Valerie's hired gun

Editor, The Times:

Last night I received an interesting telephone call from Larry Bakken, who represented himself as "Valerie's hired gun." He called me because I am a member of the Valley First Committee. He complained about the campaign ads placed by that committee. Bakken seemed most disturbed about her being depicted wearing a British flag. Now, why should he? After all, she was recently a British subject.

Valerie chose to become involved in politics and become a candidate. As of that moment, she became a public figure, and must suffer the same treatment suffered by John D. Murphy. For the future information of the Raymond - Miller - Bakken group, Valley First Committee meets regularly. The President is Dagmar Fulton.

Dedication to office

Editor, The Times:

I have had a close personal interest in the First District Supervisor position for 36 years, and in the valley all of my life.

John D. Murphy has demonstrated his dedication and concern for the First District and has earned support from all of us.

My grandparents came here in 1851, I suspect John's folks were here about then too. My father, Chet Stanley, first ran for Supervisor in 1940, he was first elected in 1944, and re-elected in 1948, 1952, 1956 and in 1960.

My father died after that last election and before being sworn in for another term, and John D. Murphy was appointed to fill that term. He ran successfully in 1962, 1964, 1968 and 1972.

First District has, for 32 years, had to fight for every advance or just leave control in the Tribune tower; three or four of the supervisors have always been from the highly urbanized North County Area. The Trib's endorsement of Murphy's opponent is based on their interests, not ours.

A great deal has been accomplished on behalf of First District residents, but we have never forgotten the individual rights of the people, or those who have lived here longest and are trying to preserve some of their heritage for their children.

Murphy is more concerned about keeping welfare costs down than about "getting more welfare money" for First District. He knows that once we tax the farmers and ranchers out of business, or take over their land, we are the only ones left to tax.

I hope all of you will join me in returning John Murphy to the office in which he is serving so well.

Mike Stanley
Pleasanton

Murphy thanked

Editor, The Times:

Open letter to Supervisor John Murphy
Dear Supervisor Murphy,

Some of us have not had the opportunity of getting to know you well personally, but we have observed you many times in your role as public servant. For the latter, there are a great many of us who wish to say, thank you John, for a job well done.

We can no longer sit back and tolerate the proven lies that your opponents are spreading all over the newspapers.

You are a moderate who tries to see all sides of a question. Never have you referred to the ranchers in the Valley as not really owning their land but regarded as merely "stewards of the land." "Stewards of the land," an interesting phrase which came from the lips of your young opponent who was raised and indoctrinated in Socialist England. . .

Good Luck
and Again thank you, friend,

Rosemarie Gleese friends and ranchers in the Livermore-Amador Valley

Shameful intolerance

Editor, The Times:

I am dismayed by the flagrant and shameful appeals to the intolerance made by John Murphy in his campaign for Supervisor.

At the Candidate's Night meeting and in his advertising, the line is taken that Valerie Raymond is somehow suspect as a candidate for Supervisor, because she is not native born. . .

Surely, as a descendant of Irish immigrants, Mr.

Murphy can not want us to go back to those days when many new Americans were denied their rights because of their ethnic backgrounds.
